Design Engineering Manager

Permanent- County Louth

Company:

This role provides an excellent opportunity to work with a dynamic growing business that provides innovative high-end solutions for Cleanroom & Hygienic Environments, Architectural Metalwork, Production and Manufacturing sites across Ireland, the UK and Internationally, as well as individual, bespoke projects across a range of industries. Join us and be the difference that makes the difference.

Accountabilities:

The key focus of this role is to ensure that all project designs and associated documentation are produced to the highest standards, ensuring product quality, mitigation of costs, on time delivery, and optimum customer satisfaction. The successful candidate will be able to calmly manage a team of designers, handle multiple and diverse tasks often under pressure, and be able to prioritise these quickly and effectively. Participation in continuous improvement activities to improve product quality, cost and lead time is integral part of this remit.

Essential Criteria:

The successful candidate will have broad mechanical design engineering capabilities, gained over a five to ten year period in a similar environment specialising in metal fabrication design and/or non structural architectural metalwork. Proficiency in AutoCad, strong project management skills, the ability to interpret surveys, design products, produce approval/fabrication and installation drawings are all essential. The ability to communicate clearly and articulately across all internal and external multidisciplinary teams (production, quality, site staff, architects, contractors, suppliers and end users) is instrumental to success in this role. Applicants who have practical working knowledge of Inventor or similar 3D modelling packages, or have experience of designing for cleanroom & hygienic environments will be at a distinct advantage.
